"Have you ever loved someone that you never had?"

What kind of question is that to leave your wife-to-be with nine days before your wedding as you jet off to check on another woman?

In Promises Beyond Jordan, this question becomes a thundering theme for many characters of this drama-laden, spirit-filled tale of family, love, friendship, commitment, scars (seen and unseen), secrets, sacrifices and promises.

As if all this weren't enough, there's a scandal brewing that threatens to destroy Wings of Grace Faith Ministry Church along with its dreadlocks-sporting, Word-teaching pastor.

Circles of Love - Karen White-Owens

Software specialist Cynthia Williams has a wonderful relationship with attorney David Daniels -- until an unplanned pregnancy pushes them to get married. Cynthia resents David for urging her to quit her job and prepare for her new role as a stay-at-home mother. David also discourages Cynthia from finding her birth parents, believing that she will open herself up for further pain and rejection. But how can Cynthia plan her future when she knows so little about her past?

David may not agree with all his fiance's ideas on marriage, but he knows that Cynthia is the right woman for him. They've finally set a date, but when David postpones it in order to deal with a high-profile case, Cynthia questions his dedication to their future. Will she always take second place to his career? And with their very different views of marriage, can they even make it to the altar?

THEN: Four years ago, Cara Reynolds gave her heart to Leon Hightower only to discover his damning secret, that he was a married man. Hurting and broken-hearted, she walked out of his life and vowed to never let a man trample her heart again

NOW: Leon is back. And he seeks not only forgiveness, but a chance to love Cara again. Cara wants nothing to do with him. Unfortunately, her heart refuses to follow the dictates of her mind. She can't resist Leon's vows of love and passion. At last, they find out that their love is strong enough to conquer not only past betrayals and pains, but a deranged psycho hell-bent on destroying Cara.

Successful, Smart, & Straight...Is that too much for a woman to want in a man?

Candace Turner is beginning to think so. At 29, she has almost everything a woman can possibly want – a thriving business and her own home.

The only thing missing is Mr. Right.

If Candace can survive her temperamental pooch, Lady, her bickering friends, and a chronically suicidal mother, she might be able to find her ideal mate.

And if she can't, Mr. Right Now will have to do.
